May 5, 2024 –6th Sunday of Easter

Jesus emphasizes the centrality of love in His teachings in today's gospel. He instructs His disciples to remain in His love by keeping His commandments, particularly the commandment to love one another. This love is not ordinary; it is selfless and sacrificial, exemplified by Jesus' willingness to lay down His life for His friends.

Imagine a world where love conquers hate, where forgiveness bridges divides, and where compassion heals wounds. Just as the remarkable friendship between two children transcended animosity, our love can ignite sparks of reconciliation and transform communities. Let us embrace this transformative power of love and live out our discipleship by loving one another as Christ loved us.

La liturgia della Parola di questa domenica mette l'accento sul grande comandamento evangelico dell'amore. «Dio è amore». Tutta la Bibbia esalta questa meravigliosa qualità divina. Si tratta di un amore preveniente che deve estendersi a tutti perché «Dio non fa preferenze di persone» e vuole donare la sua salvezza a tutti coloro che vivono onestamente secondo Dio. È un amore che è giunto a noi fattivamente attraverso Gesù e tutto quello che lui ha compiuto per noi. Un amore che accetta qualsiasi sacrificio, che ama tutti i fratelli, anche i nemici. Da noi, che siamo "i suoi amici", Gesù si aspetta risposte d'amore: "rimanere in lui", con l'ascolto della sua Parola e con l'osservanza dei suoi comandamenti; cercare solo ciò che a lui piace perché chi ama veramente non ha altra preoccupazione che di piacere all'amato e di prevenirlo in ciò che desidera; riversare sugli altri questo grande amore ricevuto perché non possiamo pretendere di amare Dio se non facciamo rifluire sui fratelli l'amore che Dio ha avuto per noi. Da questi due segni riconosceremo che il nostro amore per Dio è di oro puro e non di vile piombo falsamente dorato.

The police stop an old guy in questionable condition at 1 am. "What are you doing out so late, sir?" asks the police officer. The man sighs, "my wife." ☺☺☺☺
